His Excellency
Ronald W. REAGAN
President of the United States of America
The White House
Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. President,

I thank you for the congratulations and the best wishes conveyed on behalf of the American people on the occasion of the 64th Anniversary of the Soviet State.

You may be assured that any practical steps of the United States of America in the context of your expressed desire to work in the interests of peace and constructive relations with the Soviet Union will always find understanding and support on our part.
